Charitable Consultant
Wells Fargo Wealth Management Group –
Charitable Management Group

Daniel P Harris is vice president and charitable consultant for Wells Fargo Wealth Management Group in the Southwest United States. He is an experienced charitable resource who offers customized planning solutions for nonprofit organizations and philanthropic individuals.

Harris assists individuals and families in planning their philanthropic objectives through private foundations, charitable trusts, and other planning strategies. He also assists nonprofit organizations in developing successful planned giving programs including gift annuity programs. As a charitable consultant, he seeks to educate clients about the many facets of the charitable world.

Harris has over 17 years of experience in the financial services industry. Prior to joining Wells Fargo Private Client Services in 2006, he was director of gift planning for LMC Community Foundation in the Denver area, a position he held for five years. Harris has worked in the international capital markets, including positions in the United States, Japan, and Germany.

Harris holds a BA from McGill University in Montreal and an MBA in finance from The University of Texas at Austin.

Harris is involved in a number of professional organizations including the Colorado Planned Giving Roundtable where he has served on the board of directors for four years, and was President in 2007. He is also a member of the National Committee on Planned Giving. Harris serves on the advisory committees at the University of Denver's Pioneer Leadership Program and the DU Office of Internationalization's International Graduate Leadership Program. His many volunteer activities have included the Ronald McDonald House in Denver, where he served as Treasurer.
