

TRUE NORTH Connections

William M. Eck, CWC
President

If you had a life of significance, what would that look like?

Who had a profound impact on your life and how did they shape who you are?

What are three life principles you have based your life on? What would be important about these principles to the people that you leave behind?

What will be the outcome for the people receiving your financial inheritance?

Will it be what you intended?

Where in your current planning are the answers to these questions and is this important to you?

True North Connections, LLC helps families connect to what matters most, so their purpose and passions can be integrated into their lives and planning. Our focus turns success into significance and keeps the family and fortune together for multiple generations.

We are a resource that guides families to better clarity and understanding of what they want in life, beyond money and assets. With this deeper connection, a road map and vision is written.

From this vision, we provide organizational structure that prepares heirs to receive the financial inheritance. We strengthen the intergenerational values transfer; heighten stronger family communications and unity; develop individual responsibility; and build generational longevity, well-being and prosperity.

Mr. Eck has a Business Economics Degree from Colorado State University and a Certified Wealth Consultant designation from The Heritage Institute. He is active with Rotary International and The Rotary Foundation Annual Giving and Permanent Fund Committees, President of the Colorado Philanthropic Advisors Network, on the Board of the Colorado Ethics in Business Alliance and on the Planned Giving Committee of Regis University.
